This text has been created for Biol 14, Introduction to Conservation Biology. Fresno City College course catalog description: Introductory course in conservation biology. An exploration of phenomena influencing Earth's biological diversity with an emphasis on ecological principles and human impacts. A focus on natural resource use, management and future challenges for a growing human population.

- Front Matter
- 1: What is Conservation Biology?
- 2: The Process of Science
- 3: Population Ecology